

CCNS is seeking Full Time or Part Time Pediatric Neurodevelopmental Psychologist

Concord Comprehensive Neuropsychological Services (CCNS) is a very well-respected practice that offers neuropsychological, psychological and educational evaluations as well as consultation, advocacy, and ongoing management to patients and families. CCNS is currently comprised of five full-time neuropsychologists, but we are looking to expand our growing practice given a high volume of referrals from a wide range of providers.

We are seeking a neuropsychologist to conduct evaluations for children aged 0-5. This candidate should be able to conduct a comprehensive assessment to evaluate the developmental progress of an infant, toddler or preschooler between the ages of 0 and 5 years old, focusing on areas like cognitive, motor, language, social-emotional, and adaptive skills, to identify potential developmental delays or concerns during this critical early period of development. This candidate should be able to administer the ADOS and accompanying developmental tests.

We are seeking a motivated, compassionate, and collegial pediatric neuropsychologist who has an interest in working in a group practice setting and appreciates connections with other clinicians in a supportive work environment. Desirable candidates will also share our mission and values of providing quality evaluation, consultation, and advocacy services to our patients and their families. Ideal candidates have expertise in working with a range of neurodevelopmental, learning, behavioral and social emotional disorders, as well as an ability to communicate effectively with families, schools, and referral sources.
